With our new #RACOP_NW machine series we are setting the standard in the nonwovens sector. These high-speed #raschel machines bond fibrous webs to form #nonwovens using two or three guide bars, thus offering all the usual advantages of knitting technology over other processes. #Elasticity and #voluminosity, less energy consumption, #flexibility with maximum #productivity – factors that have the potential to lead to a widespread acceptance by the market.

Light-weight, breathability and high flexibility – This #3D #mesh fabric has all of it and is suitable for every shoe upper. #AirMesh also impresses with its two-colour concept in terms of design – making it possible to play with contrasts. This fabric can be produced on a #RD6, a flexible double-bar raschel machine for #spacer and #plush. For more mesh inspirations browse our #VirtualShowroom!
